

Rock Band

Pete's Diary is a Nashville rock band fueled by Peter Dankelson's guitar playing and motivational story. His original band is straight rock-n-roll with heavy AC/DC & GNR/Slash influences while his Broadway band covers a huge catalog of most requested rock favorites. They play every Wednesday at JBJs from 6-10 p.m.

Both bands are available for opening sets, co-bills, Broadway sets, and headlining. Dankelson's social following gives venues huge media exposure and draws in fans wherever he plays.

Gotta Let You Go

What If I Don't

Better Not Touch

Pete's Diary original trio from Chicago released an EP in 2022 and an album in 2024. The Nashville band formed in 2026. They're putting their own spin on these originals as well as writing new songs. Well-known in the online guitar community, Dankelson has made guest appearances with L.A. Guns, The Struts, Orianthi, Buckcherry, Dirty Honey, Jared James Nichols, and more!
